

RED HOOK COMMUNITY PHOTOGRAPH

May 19, 2001

Red Hook, Brooklyn, New York, USA

Dancing in the Streets, together with Red Hook community and social service organizations, churches, tenants associations, businesses, and schools and youth programs, organized 1,000 people to celebrate their unity as a community. An enlargement of the photograph will be permanently displayed in a public space in Red Hook and will be featured in performances of Picture Red Hook.

This photograph was conceived by choreographer Joanna Haigood and was inspired by interviews she conducted with Red Hook residents between 1997 and 2000 about their dreams for their community's future. It is a component of her performance project Picture Red Hook.

Picture Red Hook August 22-25, 2002 at the Red Hook Grain Terminal

Created by Joanna Haigood in collaboration with video artist Mary Ellen Strom, composer Lauren Weinger, lighting designer Jack Carpenter and set designer Wayne Campbell

Produced by Dancing in the Streets

An interdisciplinary performance focusing on the hopes and aspirations of the Red Hook community. Featuring aerial dance, large scale video projections, and live electronic music and soundscapes.

Your tax-deductible donation will be used to fund the installation of the Red Hook Community Photograph in a public place in the Red Hook community.
